CRRA Names Laurie Hunt Managing Director of Legal Services

HARTFORD, Conn. – Laurie Hunt has been named managing director of legal services by the Connecticut Resources Recovery Authority. In this position, she is responsible for managing all of CRRA's legal affairs, serving as in-house counsel and directing the efforts of outside law firms retained by CRRA.

Hunt has 16 years of experience in the energy industry, serving as corporate counsel for Northeast Energy Services, Inc., in Westborough, Mass., and general counsel for Independent Energy Corporation prior to its acquisition by Northeast Energy Services' corporate parent. In those positions, she managed in-house legal affairs, participating in the structuring, negotiating and closing of deals for the development and financing of energy facilities and sales in several states and Jamaica. She was also responsible for regulatory compliance and supervision of permitting procedures for projects in which she was involved.

Prior to joining the energy industry, she was an associate at the New Haven law firm of Winnick, Resnick, Skolnik & Auerbach.

Hunt graduated cum laude from Wesleyan University and graduated with honors from the University of Connecticut School of Law. She is a member of the Connecticut and Hartford County Bar Associations.

Hunt lives in West Hartford with her husband and daughter.

The Connecticut Resources Recovery Authority is a quasi-public agency whose mission is to work for – and in – the best interests of the municipalities of the state of Connecticut. CRRA's new board of directors and new management team develop and implement environmentally sound solutions and best practices for solid waste disposal and recycling management on behalf of municipalities. CRRA also runs environmental and recycling educational programs through its Visitors Center in Hartford and Garbage Museum in Stratford.
